6. Items offered for auction must be related to the Exhibitor's project, be of excellent quality and be appropriate for a wide range of bidders.

You may choose to offer the exact item you have made for judging in the auction, for example: a cedar chest. If you choose to part with the item you have created this is acceptable. In some cases, you will need to create an item, related to your project, specifically for the auction. For example, if you have sewn an outfit for yourself, it is obviously not appropriate to offer this for sale (it only fits you!). Remember this is an auction, there are no price guarantees. If you do not want to part with the item for whatever price it brings, do not offer it for sale.
